

Married life with rock's rebel

Rod Stewart

DECEMBER 21, 1981 ■ 95¢

People

weekly

A rare chat with Prince Philip

Namath & Farrah,
all lathered up

No lie—Pinocchio is 100!

Merry Christmas, Y'all!

Poignant and funny stories of holidays past from Larry Hagman
Loretta Lynn, Bob Hope
Morgan Fairchild
Richard Simmons
Sugar Ray Leonard Ann Landers and a sleighful of other celebs

<What do you give a man who is paid $2 million a year to play a villain who has everything? "A septic tank," says Larry (J.R.) Hagman, clowning with wife Maj in an Indian headdress (part of his collection). "I've got it all except for the plumbing. I mean, things are backing up here" (at their Malibu home). Hagman's request last year was even more selfless—no presents at all. "Christmas is supposed to be spiritual," he explains, "so I thought we'd abolish gift giving. On Christmas morning we didn't know what to do with ourselves. The kids hated me. So this year we're back to presents."